EMOTIONAL PROCESSING JOURNALING

Journaling for emotional processing and healing is journaling as a form of processing, expressing, and releasing emotions in a healthy way. It's so easy to get overwhelmed by our emotions. Whether you are the kind of person who bottles up all of their feelings or the kind of person who readily unloads their thoughts and feelings on their friends, family, or even Facebook, this form of journaling can play a vital role in your life.

Journaling for Emotional Processing and Healing is journaling as a means to release and process all of your emotions and wounds. The ones that you have buried as well as the ones that are currently overwhelming or confusing you. It's a form of journaling that also aids in healing and resolving past trauma, hurt, resentment, and more.

The more we allow ourselves to sit in, and feel the emotions the more they lose their grip on us. It's when we try to ignore them that those difficult emotions continue to haunt us.

Enjoy!
